Forecast For West Midlands
Issued by Met Office Exeter
at 0400 on Friday 03 Sep 2021

++ Valid for broadcast between 0600 and 1800

Headline:
Light drizzle for some this morning, but generally dry.

Today:
While some will see a little patchy drizzle through the morning, it will be generally dry through the afternoon. Brightest through southernmost areas later, with sunny spells more widely as cloud gradually breaks up. Feeling warm in any sunshine. Maximum temperature 20 deg C (68 deg F).

Tonight:
Sunny spells continuing, giving a bright but cooler evening. Cloud cover building again overnight, although some clearer spells persisting across southern areas. Staying dry throughout. Minimum temperature 11 deg C (52 deg F).

Saturday:
Another dry day across the region. The best of any sunny spells in the west through the morning, then bright or sunny spells more generally during the afternoon. Maximum temperature 19 deg C (66 deg F).

Outlook for Sunday to Tuesday:
Mostly dry with variable cloud throughout this period, giving some sunny spells. However, some rain possible on Sunday night and for a time on Monday. Fairly breezy but turning warm.

(C) Crown Copyright 2021. Published by the Met Office.